DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-12 and 46 - 48, drawn to IVUS-based vascular characterization method using histology data, classified in class 600, subclass 467.
- II. Claim 13-21 and, drawn to IVUS-based vascular characterization apparatus using database parameter sets, classified in class 600, subclass 467.
- III. Claims 22 - 45, drawn to method and apparatus for characterizing vascular tissue including histologic image formation, classified in class 600, subclass 443.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the method involves the storage of histologic data not necessarily plural data sets or parameterized data as opposed to histologic images whereas the apparatus operates with stored parameter sets i.e. necessarily plural in nature and not necessarily histologic, for example elasticity parameters would not be histologic.

Art Unit: 3737

Inventions[I, II] and III are related as subcombination. and combination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it includes structure and method steps for forming a first image and a histology image and for identifying a region of interest (ROI) and registering the images wrt each other using an identified landmark. The subcombination has separate utility such as in applications which do not require histologic image-based registry using identified image landmarks.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group III (external vascular imaging e.g. CIMT (Carotid Intima Medial Thickness type)) surface neck artery imaging is not required for Group I,II which are confined to IVUS, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
